Former division rivals collide in this NFC playoff game. Carolina discarded Dallas 29-10 in the Wild Card round to earn this opportunity against the 12-4 Rams. These teams met 14 times as rivals in the old NFC West division, splitting those meetings 7-7. However, Carolina won four of seven in St Louis. The Panthers were 5-3 SU & 4-4 ATS on the road this season. The Rams were a perfect 8-0 SU & 6-1-1 ATS at home, but come in off a loss in the season finale at Detroit which cost them the #1 seed in the NFC playoffs.

Kansas City was the third host team in the divisional playoffs to go through its season unbeaten at home. The Chiefs did it with offense at Arrowhead, scoring 34 ppg and outscoring opponents by almost 19 ppg. They face a tough task here though against Indianapolis, a team that was 7-1 on the road in 2003. The Colts come off one of their best games in years, a 41-10 wildcard drubbing of the Denver Broncos. Indianapolis also holds a distinct series edge against Kansas City, winning all of the last five meetings SU & ATS, including four at Arrowhead.
